FOREWARD

We the staff of 1972-73 dedicate our theme in memory of W.E.B. Dubois's dynamic book "Souls of Black Folk."

*This is our connotation
"The Souls of Black Folk"*

When we think of the "soul" of a person, we do not think of it in the same connection as the "spirit" of a person for two are entirely different and they should not be confused.

Spirit is used especially in contradistinction from matter; it may in many cases be substituted for soul, but soul has commonly a fuller and more determinate meaning.

Soul denotes energy and depth of feeling, as when we speak of soulful eyes-or better still-the souls of Black folk.

The souls of Black folk denote a fervor and emotional force with which we live our lives and which set us apart from any other race of people.

With such a fervor, we live here at A&T each year. We attend classes, have fun, and really get some serious business done before an academic year is completed. We accomplish these tasks with such a dynamic force that our deeds are left long after we are gone.

And then, is that not what souls are and what they do? We all know that after the soul is gone, there is really nothing left. Therefore, the souls of Black people, especially AGGIES, will live on here on A&T's campus.

We of the AYANTEE Staff present to each of you a look at Aggie family life, a lasting look into our lives that will live on after us. In this volume, we hope that some of our emotional energy—some of our soul—will rub off on you, making you have the soul that let our Black race shine. If you already have the soul, then let it work harder and longer in your daily work.

Everybody dig what "we the people" consider "the souls of Black folk."

Brother Dick Gregory was our KICKOFF speaker for Homecoming Week before the slaughter of Morgan State. The entire campus enjoyed a most delightful and knowledgeable speech by him. He commented on Clifton Irving, hijacking, FBI, CIA, and young people. Brother Gregory has been fasting for the past 20 months as of Oct. 23 protesting the war in Vietnam. His most widely used statement was, "young people you've got a big job and you haven't got much time."

WELCOME FROM CHANCELLOR DOWDY

The publication of The Ayantee is annually one of the highlights of the academic year at A&T State University, but we are especially proud to salute the editors and staff of this outstanding yearbook.

We have watched with interest as you have diligently prepared this historic record of the achievements and contributions of the entire Aggie family. Your production reflects in a significant way the day to day events on our campus, which are worth remembering.

The board of trustees, the administration, the faculty and the staff commend you for helping to preserve a segment of our rich heritage.

This has been an outstanding year in many respects, but most notable have been the singular growth and personal development of the A&T student body. You have strived to reach new heights in educational accomplishments, while maintaining the necessary balance in pursuits outside of the classroom.

We bid a fond farewell to our graduating seniors. May all of you proceed from Alma Mater with determination to reach your highest potential. As ambassadors of the Aggie tradition, we hope you will make your presence felt in a meaningful way in the communities, large or small, wherever you may settle.

Dr. Lewis C. Dowdy

MISS A & T

SISTER ARLENE BELL

A Black Queen forever, simplifies the charm, grace and witty Arlene Bell. An Early Childhood Education major from Asheville, North Carolina, Arlene graduated from Lee H. Edwards High School in 1969. She is the daughter of Mr. & Mrs. L. C. Bell.

The Former Miss Junior, Arlene enjoys all sports, reading, traveling and work with children. The lovely voice of the Half-time activities for the Marching Aggies also belong to our Black Miss A & T. She is a former majorette, Alpha Phi Omega's queen of service, member of the Women's Council and active in the Student Government Association.

It has been wonderful working with Arlene this year. She possesses all the strong qualities of a truly Black Queen.

Future plans for Arlene are to be as sweet as she is always and to become a Director of her own Day Care Center.

Officially, she is an honorary member of the AYANTEE Staff. Arlene adds a little brightness to the office with her every visit.

The A&T National Alumni Association is an active partner of one of the nation's most striving universities. The Association's contributions include the following areas:

ANNUAL FUND RAISING

The A&T Alumni Association remains one of the most encouraging examples of loyalty to the University in attracting and recruiting talented scholars, faculty and athletes.

Members of the Alumni Association, through their Annual Giving Campaign, have supported their University with more than $150,000 during the past three years.

LEGISLATIVE RELATIONS:

The alumni of A&T play a significant role in expressing the programs and needs of the University to state and national lawmaking bodies who are responsible for the budgeting and financing of higher education.

RECRUITING

As previously expressed, the alumni render a valuable service in assisting the University in attracting students and faculty. Individual alumni chapters throughout the United States award scholarships, serve as information bureaus for the University, entertain A&T students in the summer and during vacations and provide cultural programs from the University to individual communities.

MISS ALUMNI 1972-73

This year's vivacious A&T Alumni Queen is Miss Freddie Ann Bush, nominated by the New York City Chapter of the A&T State University Alumni Association.

A 1969 graduate of A&T in Business Education, Miss Bush is a Greensboro native now residing in New York City. She is employed by the McGraw Hill Book Company where she carries out her professional duties as an editorial assistant.

Full of Aggie energy, she also teaches and studies part-time at Hunter College in the City in pursuit of her master's degree.

Miss Freddie Bush She contributes five hundred dollars yearly to the alumni scholarship fund and her company matches this amount. Miss Bush is also a member of the Chancellor's Council, and was a member of Phi Beta Lambda, the Library Club and the Off-Campus Club while at A&T. Hats off and hear felt congratulations to Miss Alumni 1972-73, another beautiful credit to AGGIELAND.

On Saturday, February 3, 1973, the four A&T Alumni who initiated the original lunch counter sit-in at F.W. Woolworth's on Feb 1, 1960 held a reunion at the store. The Group met to participate in the filming of their dramatic story by ABC Television. The Story was telecasted nationally by Harry Reasoner late February, 1973.

Of the four, only David Richmond, counselor in a manpower program, now lives in Greensboro. Blair teaches blacks about the building trades in Boston; Joe McNeil is a lender with Banker's Trust in New York; and McCain is a development engineer with the Celanese Corporation in Charlotte, N. C.

Each of the men can quickly recall, as if yesterday, the events that were to touch off similar action by blacks throughout the South, events which were to lead to the passage of the Civil Rights Act in 1964.

DEDICATION

The perception of athletics represents part of the true spirit of a great University. The sorrow of minor defeats strengthens the joy of major victories. This task of winning and losing falls heavily upon the shoulders of The Athletic Department of A & T State University. Simplifying blackness in every sport.

We, the AYANTEE Staff of 1972-73, would like to dedicate this edition of our yearbook to you, the entire Athletic Department.

During the seasons past, our football team, coached by H. Howell, finished a thrilling year and placed second in the MEAC. Other competitive sports wrestling, is first places so far in the season, baseball placed second in the season 1972. And finally, our great basketball team, conquered the MEAC Championship in 1972, the "First Tournament" and "First in visitation."

Whether winning or losing, we love you and are behind you all the way. The Athletic Department has shown the "togetherness" it takes to succeed in competitive black sports.

SOUL . .

A Sports Minded University

SOUL . . .

A Winning University in Every Aspect of SPORTS.

BEHIND EVERY GREAT TEAM

Matt Brown was an assistant under former mentor Bill Bell starting in 1946. Brown was a star quarterback on Ohio State Univ. team that went undefeated. Matt is noted for the tricky antics which he passed along to Aggie quarterbacks.

Willie Pollard, besides being an Army ROTC instructor is the Aggies' end coach. A graduate of Prairie View A & M, Pollard was drafted into professional ball but went into the service.

Melvin Groomes came to A & T in 1955 and has been one of the South's most successful baseball coaches. His teams won 10 CIAA titles in 17 seasons and finished second in the MEAC in 1971. He is the football team's head scout and handles the defensive backs.

Wylie Harris, a Charlotte native serves as defensive line coach. Just returning to A & T after coaching at N.C. Central for a season, Harris was a center on A & T's 1959 CIAA championship team.

Murray Neely carries the responsibility of developing the strong Aggie offensive blocking line. In his 22nd year at A & T, Neely also coaches the A & T trackmen.

Stan Jacobs will be remembered for a long time as having been one of the all-time great quarterbacks to play for the Aggies. A native of Orangeburg, S.C., Jake began his college career at S.C. State and entered the Army after a year with the Bulldogs. He works with A & T offense.

THERE IS A GREAT COACHING STAFF

Howell has knack for molding his ingredients, adding a few more, and coming up with a surprise recipe.

He played high school football at Burney Harris High and later became a starting tackle at Atlanta's Clark College in 1954 under Coach Charles McPherson.

After one year, Howell decided to enter A & T where he became one of the Aggies' all-time great centers.

He served as head coach at Jordan Sellers High in Burlington, N.C. for three years (1950-53) before returning to A & T as head trainer. After working at Southern Univ. and then bearing assistant coaching duties at A & T, he was named the University's head coach in 1968.

LETTERMEN CLUB

In the beginning we knew we had a winning team. The weather was perfect for football, the crowd at capacity and the smell of popcorn, peanuts, and coke in the air. Elizabeth City tried hard but not hard enough to get by the T-Men.

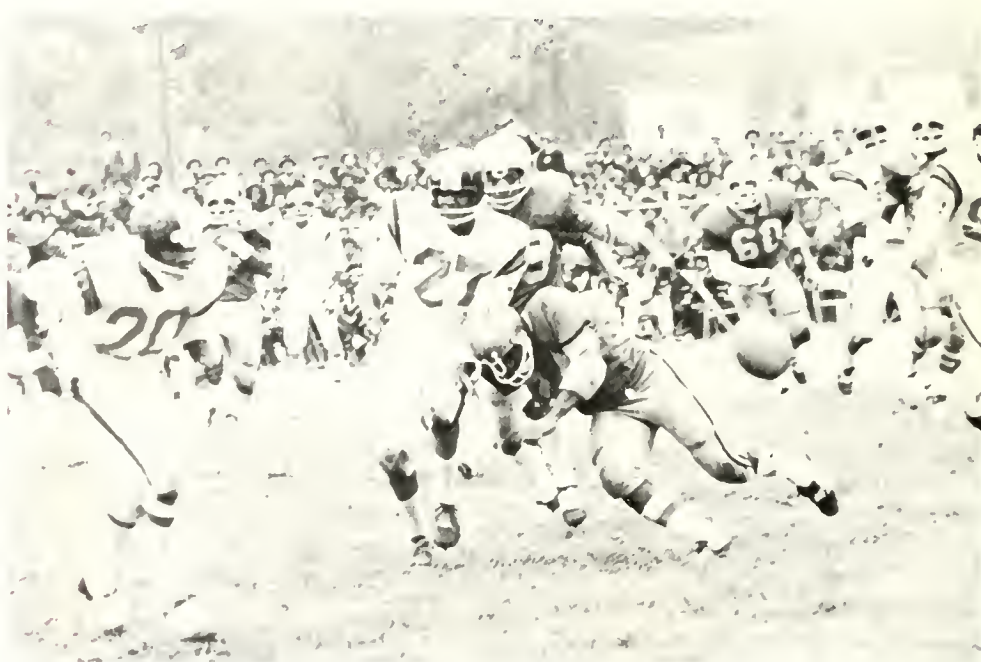

The defending CIAA Champs were out to win. WE had another goal in mind MEAC Championship.

Leading the way for the aggressive Aggie team are running backs George Ragsdale, Artis Stanfield and William Medley and don't forget Al Holland. Behind them are quarterbacks Paul McKibbins and Len Reliford.

Defensively, All-American Candidates William Wideman and Osceola Hicks help to hold that strong wall along with defensive end Carl Collins, defensive back John Guy, and cornerback John Hampton.

The Big Game

SICKNESS . . . "I wish we could do it over again"

9-7, it was closer than the score indicated. On the tip off a great dash by Stanfield, and it all started. There was a touchdown by us, the extra point good, and at halftime we led . . . 7-0. The game was a decision for the MEAC Championship, and most important of all a big contest to us. For a brief period, we felt we were Number One. The band, fans, and cheerleaders displayed all the qualifications of a winning University. The second half . . . what a half, a supposedly touchdown for them, even though it was evident that he ran out of bounds of the 2. "I wish we could do it over."

COACH WARREN REYNOLDS

"There's no pressure on me because we're playing major college teams from the first time," said N. C. A. & T.'s first year head coach Warren Reynolds at the beginning of the 1973-73 season.

"The pressure comes from trying to sustain a winning tradition at A&T where an average of only 5 or 6 games are lost each season."

With this in mind, Reynolds, a graduate of Tuskegee Institute, set out to tackle the roughest schedule in Aggie history. His quintet, highly motivated and tuned to perfection, opened on the road with three games and bettered strong teams from Johnson C. Smith, Norfolk State and Elizabeth City State.

Bearing a philosophy of fast moving but disciplined offensive basketball intermingled with crisp defensive play, the Aggies hit a rough snag near the end of the season losing six of eight games on the road, but Reynolds kept the faith saying "this might relieve some of the tension on us at the MEAC tournament".

Reynolds philosophy stems from his own spectacular athletic career at Tuskegee where he received his bachelor of science degree in physical education in 1962. His 6-5, 235lb. stature aided him in becoming an all-conference performer in basketball, football, and baseball while a collegian.

He went on to demonstrate his coaching ability by leading his Ballard-Hudson High School team in Macon, Ga., to a 57-14 record over a four year period.

A native of Dolthan, Ala., Reynolds coached such stars as Elmore Smith of the Buffalo

Braves, all-MEAC guard James Outlaw, (at Ballard-Hudson) and Julius Adams, a member of the NFC's New England Patriots.

He let A&T's 1970-71 freshman team to a 12-1 record while serving as assistant coach to the varsity for two seasons. Taking over head coaching duties from athletic director Cal Irvin, Reynolds said at the season's start "if every player acquires team spirit, driving desire, self-discipline, pride, confidence and leadership, a coach given average talent, can develop outstanding teams.

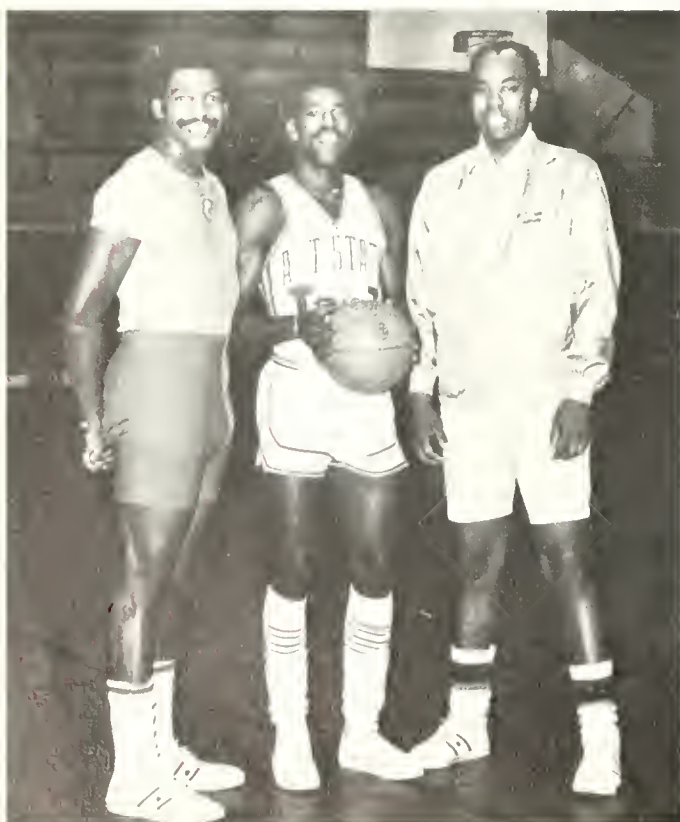

He is married to the former Miss Amy Armstrong of Tuskegee, Ala., and has three children.

Assisting Coach Reynolds is James "Frank" Levister, an A&T graduate and a forward under former coach Cal Irvin. A native of Philadelphia, Penn., Frank is unmarried and 25 years-old.

Levister worked with Reynolds for two years and says "I have complete confidence in his coaching ability and I believe we will be able to floor a representative team."

"I've played with and know most of the players", he says "which should help our team's cohesiveness. This is a very important viewing our rough 1972 schedule."

THE AGGIE SPIRIT

(Guest Editorial)

By Albert W. Spruill

Professor of Education and Dean, The Graduate School

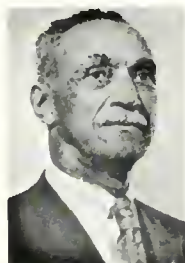

What can one say about the Aggie Spirit? In a sense, it is divergent, diffuse, joyous, but always seeking to reach the pinnacle of success that every human spirit craves.

It would be foolish to assume that all of us are alike. We are so different and possess all of the qualities of the races of men. Some are good. Some are not so good. Some are wise, while others are frivolous and foolish. Some are weak while others are strong, but we have some things in common. We feel we can hold our own with the best and we do not look down with a sense of arrogance on those who have not yet arrived. The spirit of Aggieland has endowed us with a sense of service and most Aggies will go out of their way to help those who are less fortunate or are in need. By the same token, the typical Aggie has his or her eyes on a star, a goal for which there is the passionate determination to achieve and he or she follows that star despite the difficulties until it is reached.

The Aggie Spirit is diffuse and we might add contagious. Whether it be in the rural hinterlands or the urban sprawl, the passion to make life more liveable is disseminated to clientele through our men and women. It is sometime like a chain reaction where one Aggie touches an individual who touches another and another. In so many conversations this writer has shared with students there is often the statement, "If it had not been for the help of ..., I would not have made it." The individual turns out often to be an Aggie.

I have told this story so many times, but it is a true one and illustrates the Aggie Spirit in no uncertain terms. Sometime ago when we were giving the A. and T. Scholarship Examinations sponsored by the National Alumni Association for the selection of five outstanding students to receive scholarships to enter the University, this writer was scheduled to give an examination in a certain section of Eastern North Carolina. On many occasions, we had to drum up support and interest in these exams. I remember talking to a principal and raised the question with him as to whether any of his students would be taking the tests. He smiled at me and said, "No. I don't have a student who can do anything on that exam." I admonished him to try them, that he might be surprised at the outcome, but my suggestion fell on deaf ears.

We gave that examination and a young man from this principal's school did not take it. In fact, he was busy trying to get to an Eastern University in engineering. His SAT score was too low and after being rejected, he simply gave up, but a perceptive Aggie who had watched this young man's promise picked him up one day and said to him, "Let's go to Greensboro." He brought him to A. and T. and demanded that the University admit him. Luckily, the University officials gave in to his plea. This young man, I am told, entered, passed the entrance examinations in English and mathematics and made the honor roll in his first semester and went on to finish the University summa cum laude in electrical engineering. He is now touching other individuals, but I am convinced that had it not been for the influence of the Aggie Spirit, this young man may never have entered college. This story has been duplicated over and over again for it is typical of the A. and T. personality.

The Aggie Spirit is joyous, whether it is in athletics or social or academic life. It is personified in the cheerful and cordial relationships between faculty and students, students and students, and students and alumni. The typical Aggie is not a brooder. Despite life's difficulties, an Aggie man or woman learns to look at the brighter side of life and, thus, is an optimist.

Finally, the Aggie Spirit arouses within an individual the desire to reach the pinnacle of success that every human spirit craves. In academic life, in social and political affairs or in athletics, this passion is always there. It makes the teacher excel so that students are led to quicken the qualities that are half-asleep within them. It makes the secretary proof her copies so that they turn out to be an exact reproduction of what is to be said. It makes the auto repairman recheck the body of a fender that he has just put the finishing touches on. It makes the athlete scamper across the football field demanding a little more than he feels he has or the basketball player to tackle the challenge of those who seem superior. It makes the boxer who is running out of wind find more from somewhere to end the battle on top.

It is this Aggie Spirit that produces entries into the Hall of Fame. Those who walk into these portals are imbued with it and have shown through their specialties that they are worthy candidates to wear the mantle of the Blue and Gold. Yet, entry into the Hall does not write finish for no Aggie sits idly by and rests on his or her laurels. As the Prophet Kalil Gabran would say, "They give that they might have life for to withhold is to perish."

"Don't Take My Kindness for Weakness", the newest release by The Soul Children, really impressed the Aggie audience. They also did a number of sounds from their latest album and the oldie but goodie "The Sweet-er He Is". Homecoming really profiled Blackness with the appearance of these talented individuals on stage.

GEORGE FAISON DANCERS

The George Faison Dancers injected a bite of culture to the Aggie Homecoming activities.

EDWIN HAWKINS SINGERS

Edwin Hawkins Singers started the Aggies year off with a rocking, hand clapping show.

The Dramatics enthused a gigantic Aggie crowd with their appearance here this year. Among the many Soulful sounds, they did a job with "In the Rain" and "A Toast to the Fool".

"A Toast to the Fool"

THE DRAMATICS

Harold Melvin and the Blue Notes brought tears to the Aggie women's eyes as they sung their hits "I Miss You" and No. 1 in G'boro "If You Don't Know Me My Now."
